

EAU SO FRESH

A treasured French classic lightens up

Chanel No. 5 is a fragrance whose allure never fades, nor loses its identity or signature charm. Through the years we've had the titillating EDT, EDP and Eau Premiere releases, always saturated in heady, strong

No. 5 notes of jasmine, rose, ylang ylang and neroli, but perfumer Olivier Polge's new No. 5 L'Eau is strikingly different. Fresh and zesty (two words we would never use to describe the original scent), a spritz delivers an invigorating hit of citrus from lemon, mandarin and orange, making the new scent natural, light and airy like never before.

The original notes of ylang ylang and jasmine are made greener and lighter, accompanied with vibrant vetiver and cedar. No. 5, reinvented.
