

The Golden Girls

Four of the most iconic haircuts of Hollywood's golden age that made careers and cemented these Tinseltown starlets as the primo beauty idols of their time TEXT SHANTILA LEE

Sporting her signature waves in This Gun For Hire

40s VERONICA LAKE PEEK-A-BOO PINUP

You've heard the term 'Veronica Lake waves'—well here they are, and they're fabulous. Hailed as the 'It' girl of the roaring 40s, there was just something about Veronica Lake's full pout and that sexy, sweeping hair with the flirty peek-a-boo eye that was seductive beyond words. Paired with her indelible mystique, the deep side-part and glamorous, cascading waves are the epitome of chic vintage.

VERONICA LAKE in Tenacious Helios

Spritz on Kérastase Resistance Volumactive and curl hair in small sections with a curling iron. Smooth Redken All Soft Multi-Care Oil through strands for a shiny, soft finish.

A short crop in Roman Holiday

50s AUDREY HEPBURN MY FAIR LADY

Audrey Hepburn made a career-bounding leap in Roman Holiday, where her hair was cut to a perfect gamine crop. The pixie cut with super short layers all around was a transition that added to the style icon's nymph-like grace and elegance, leading to other roles where she appeared in coiffed updos (Sabrina) or the famous—and much copied—chic French chignon she wore in Breakfast at Tiffany's.

The legendary updo in Breakfast at Tiffany's

Style a short pixie crop by adding texture and shape with a wax or paste like L'Oréal Professionnel Playball Density Material, RM50

STILL LIFE CORINA FOONG IMAGE GETTY IMAGES

60s BRIGITTE BARDOT AND GOD CREATED WOMAN

An utter sex kitten renowned for her sultry, come-hither style and beach-chic appeal, the voluptuously full, tousled blonde mane set against killer curves and super-feminine sexuality had women every where scrambling for Bardot-esque bedroom hair. Worn with a half-up bouffant in A Very Private Affair or a seductively hot mess of buttery curls in Viva Maria, Bardot's bombshell à la française locks unmistakably set the gold standard for kittenish tresses.

Soft wavy locks in Viva Maria

The key to the Bardot bouffant is lots of teasing at the roots to add body; apply Redken Smooth Down Detangling Cream through locks for extra smoothness.

On the set of Vie Privée

70s FARRAH FAWCETT CHARLIE'S ANGEL

Before there was 'The Rachel', there was 'The Farrah'. When the legendary Seventies retro-vixen donned the equally legendary feathered flip during her career-launching role in Charlie's Angels, the vintage cut became the hallmark of 1970s-all-American beauty. Farrah's stylist, Allen Edwards, reported that "people were lining up and down the street" waiting to get the layered 'do, igniting a tress revolution that continues to inspire us today.

On the set of Charlie's Angels

Prep hair with Kérastase Elixir Ultime. Use a large-barrel curling iron in one-inch sections away from the face to feather out bits of hair around the face; hold it in place with Wella Professionals Stay Styled Finishing Spray.

